DEBATE ON THE ARMY BILL

MEMBERS OF THE REICHSTAG URGED TO GIVE IT A BIG MAJORITY.

The Bill Passes the First Reading-Many speeches For and Against It-Emper-William's Views on Political Affairs. BERLIN, March 7 .- Gen. Bronsart von Behellendorf, Minister of War, introduced the Septennate bill in the Reichstag to-day. In his speech presenting the measure he said: Let us forget what has passed. There is no doubt about the acceptance of the bill, but the greater the ma-jority it receives the more significant will be its success. Therefore we sak you to vote for the bill in as strong force as possible. This will be the finest fruit the session

Herr Bennigsen said:

My friends, I absolutely favor the bill. The elections have decided the matter, which has a national character, especially in view of the state of foreign politics. At such a moment it is necessary to sink all political differences and abandon mere party tactics. Let us drop the question whether greater danger threatens us from the east or from the west. One thing is certain: The Empe-ror's unalterable love of peace is inspiring the peaceful Oerman policy and the steadfast endeavor of the Government to maintain peace on the Continent. The Reichstag has no direct influence upon foreign affairs, Itcan, however, attengthen the dovernment by prompting granting everything necessary for the defensive strength of the empire.

Dr. Windthorst said he believed the bill would be rapidly passed and would not require disgussion in committee. He reserved for the roballots should be known, the right of defining its position.

Herr von Helldorf referred to the already known result of the elections as leaving the Releastag no course but that of speedily assenting to the bill.

Herr Richter, the new German Liberal leader, said that he would reintroduce his former motions, and, if they should be rejected, would vote against the Soptennate bill. After announcing that he would again submit a proposal for an imperial income tax, he argued that the fixing of the peace effective force had nothing to do with the country's being prepared for war. His party, he said, had always supported national objects, and would continue to do so. As for the septennate, it might prove to be a permanent measure. Although he was conscious that his party was in a minority, he would endeavor to urge the necessity of a two-years' service.

Herr von Kardoff supported the bill. He Herr von Kardoff supported the bill. He aid that likehter would not again succeed in btaining a majority in the Reichstag. He rged the House to make the passage of the urged the House to make the passage of the bill unanimous.

Herr Singer, on behalf of the Socialists, condemned the bill on account of the great financial burden it imposed upon the people.

Dr. Reichensperger reserved his objections until the second reading of the bill. It was agreed to take the second reading at a plenary sitting. There was no proposal to refer the bill to a committee. The bill then passed the first reading.

The bill will be taken up for second reading to-morrow, and debate will ensue, Herr Windspergers.

Bill to a committee. The bill then passed the first reading.

The bill will be taken up for second reading to-morrow, and debate will ensue. Herr Windthorst, the leader of the Clerical party, will then declare his intentions in relation to the septennate term. The other party leaders have announced that they will vote as they did when the bill was defeated in the late Reichstag.

The first reading of the budget will take place to-morrow.

At a reunion of the Contre party, seventy-five members being present, a general vote of confidence in the party leaders was passed.

The committee of the upper House of the Prussian Diet has rejected all of Bishop Kopp's amendments to the Ecclesiastical bill. The upper House will consider the bill in a plenary sitting on the 18th inst.

Emperor William yesterday received Herr Wedell Piesdorf, the President of the Reichstag. The Emperor will have rejucted to dissolve the late Reichstag. Despite his explanation to the Reichstag of the superiority of Germany's neighbors over her in military matters, the opposition majority refused to sanction the military bill to the necessary extent, and reasonable hope that the septennate term would have been adopted, after the example given by France, proved fallacious. It was more gratifying now to cherish the hope that a large majority in the new Reichstag would accept the bill at the outset. Referring to the attitude of the Pope during the elections, he said that he had already been convinced of the pacific disposition of his Hollness, and that it was on this account that Germany had asked him to act as arbitrator in the dispute with Spain about the Caroline Islands. In conclusion, the Emperor expressed the hope that all the ecclesiastical troubles between Prussia and the Vatican would soon be peacefully and completely settled.

THE FIGHT OVER IRELAND.

Grave Charges Against the Irish Leaders-The Debate on Cloture.

LONDON, March 7 .-- A Conservative whip House of Commons to be in readiness to supbate on cloture to-morrow. The Parnellites and Badicals are concerting arrangements to have reliefs ready for a continuous sitting.

Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, he caused the circulation of a report among the Conservatives to the effect that he is ready to introduce an Irish Crimes bills on Monday if Sir Michael Hicks-Beach fails to do so.

John Bright refuses to assist in the negotiations of the Unionist-liadicals with the Gladstonians, and has protested against severing connection with the Hartington Unionists. He continues opposed to any scheme for an Irish

The Liberals have appointed a committee to watch the expenditures of the Admiralty and War offices and to trace any misuse of supplies. The Parnellites propose to call the attention of the House to articles in the London Times charging Mr. Parnell. Mr. Sexton. Arthur O'Connor. and others with guilty knowledge of and complicity in a series of murders in Ireland. The Times began the series of articles entitled "Parnellism and Crime" with an outspoken denunciation of the League leaders as having intimate, notorious, and continuous relations with avowed murderers. One passage is as follows:

The National League movement is based upon a scheme

The National League movement is based upon a schemic of assessination, carefully calculated and coolly ap-plied. with knouts during the entire night following their arrest: that M. Karaveloff is now dying from the effects of the knouting he received, and that five officers have already died from the effects of their punishment.

The Temps says the Bulgarian Regents hope that they will succeed, by the exercise of such cruelty, in terrifying those meditating a revolution, and in this way prevent new uprisings. The Regents, the paper adds, trust that Russia will not interfere, and intend soon to proclaim the absolute independence of Bulgaria.

RUSTCHUK, March 7.—The German Consul has informed the authorities that he is instructed to demand that the persons of Col. Filoff, Major Panof, and Lieut, Kessimoff be consigned to his charge as Russian subjects. Panof has already been shot. Filoff and Kessimoff, owing to wounds, have not yet been tried. The German Consul has sent Capt. Boliman to Giurgevo.

BEBLIN, March 7.-M. do Lesseps has been invited to visit the Empress Augusta on Wednesday next, and to attend the imperial court festivity on Friday. Count Herbette, French Ambassador, will give a banquet to M. de Lesseps and hold a reception in his honor at the end of the week.

The newspapers here unite in suggesting that M. de Lesseps receive the welcome that is due to a great Frenchman "who has worked not for France alone, but for the whole human race—a man whose worth and giory Germany can appreciate without jealousy."

Heirs to the Dutch Throne.

THE HAGUE, March 7.—The Chamber of Deputies, by a vote of 43 against 28, has approved the law regulating the succession to the throne. The law provides that, if the direct line fails, the succession shall fail, first, upon Sophia, sister of the King; secondly, upon descendants of Marianne, daughter of the inte King; thirdly, upon descendants of the late Queen Louise of Sweden, and fourthly upon Frincess Marie of Wied.

Fourteen Men Pall with a Scafold. Brading, Pa., March 7.—A scaffold at the new Keystons Market house, in course of erection here, fell this morning, and fourteen workmen fell to the ground a distance of thirty feet. Albert Dorbert was internally injured and will die, and Sylvester Nicolis, Franklin Kissinger, Magnus Eck, Jacob Gebret, William Satley, and G. Wiss Morton were seriously injured, some of them having limbs broken.

Seven Men Killed by a Snow Silde. WINNIPEG. March 7.—On Thursday last a mow slide in Selkirk struck a snow plough train, carry ing it down an immense gorge and completely burying it. When dug out seven hours afterward superintendent william Green and six men, all employees, were found smothered to death.

BRIDGEPORT, March 7.-Jack Brown, the colored wife murderer, who arrived from Chicago yester-day and gave himself up, was bound over to-day to the superior tourt. Brown says that during a quarrel his write attacked him with a butcher's knife, and that he shot her in soli-dufeau.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

Debate in the Assembly on the Coal Poel Committee's Report. ALBANY, March 7.-The Assembly this evening listened to debate on the majority and minority reports of the Coal Pool Committee, The majority reports, signed by the three Republicans, justifies the coal pool, says that the advance of price was caused by the strike, and that the strike came from sympathetic action on fancied grievances. A bill is recommended, but it is not mandatory, and it has no penalties annexed. The companies are simply and kindly advised. The minority report condemns the pool for raising the price of coal, and has a bill appended making it unlawful, with due penalties, for any combination to restrict the production of food or fuel. Arbitration is recommended as a settlement for disputes.

Mr. Martin of New York, one of the two Democratic members and a union man, moved to substitute the minority report, and said:

It is as necessary to organize labor as it is to organize capital. Capitalists have learned the power of combining dollars. Labor is learning to combine men. This is that the said of the said. pended making it unlawful, with due penalties

He pointed out the defects in the majority bill in that it did not provide penalties, and quoted from the evidence to show that the majority report was contrary to the facts.

Mr. Ainsworth replied by attacking Gov, Hill as the friend of the laboring man, and of the New York city laboring men in particular, who, Mr. Ainsworth seemed to think, were a bad lot as compared with the workingmen of Oswego county. He said:

There are individual hardships, but the condition of the workingmen is good. What more can they want they come to this land because it gives them the best priend of the laboring man. The Republican party is the friend of the laboring man. After saying that Gov, Hill sympathized with laboring men, he said that in his recent letters Mayor Hewitt had taken the proper attitude toward the workingmen, while Gov, Hill in his annual message had encouraged them.

Beveral other members wanted to talk, but it was time for the Republican caucus, and the Speaker refused to recognize any one, except to say that Capt. Manville, who allows his name to be used for this purpose, had moved to adjourn.

Mr. Low talked canals again in the Senate. This time he wants the Federal Government to appropriate enough money to run the canals. The fact that Congress had adjourned does not affect his urgency.

The Governor vetoed Senator Murphy's Teachers' Mutual Associations. If some incelligent Senator or Assemblyman had read this law he could have saved the teachers all their trouble.

Senator Traphagen offered another cable road bill.

Mr. Burns has amended his railroad bill to extend rapid transit through Westchester county so that New York city is specially exempted. Mr. Burns has amended his railroad on the Park, the one near the arsonal to be moved, and $1,50,000 for general park improvements. He also wants to

IS THE POOL BOYCOTT OVER?

A Positive Statement that an Amicable Va At the Brewers' Exchange, Secretary Sel-fert said last night that the retailers' commit tee and a committee of the brewers had come to an amicable understanding on Saturday, and that the "pool beer" fight was over. that Article VI, has been misconstrued. This was done intentionally by a brewer who thought he would benefit by a fight, and his interpretation was accepted by the retailers. When the pool was formed, we knew that no agreement could be made retroactive, and in flxing the price of beer at $8, less 5 per cent., from November. we did not disturb bargains already existing between the brewers and their customers. Some of the retailers were then getting 15 per cent. or more. Article VI. provides that no brewer shall give a new customer a larger discount than 5 per cent. The retailers understood this to apply to any of them who might want to change his brewer after Nov. 1, but that was not its object. Any man who has been buying of a pool brewer and wants to buy of another one can do so and secure his old rate of discount. The object of Article VI. was to protect the brewers from strikers or middlemen by making it of no advantage to one pool brewer to get the trade of another."

At the retailers' headquarters at Bode Bros, it was said that the situation was unchanged. # MR. TIFFANY AND HIS BRIDE.

The Young Couple Establish Themselves a Block Above the Jewelry Store.

Mr. Burnett Y. Tiffany, whose marriage with Miss Emma N. Pierson of Morristown, N. I., was a surprise to his family, is stopping at 9 Union square, one block above Tiffany's jewelry store. They visited the bride's mother, Mrs. Anna Pierson, on Saturday, remaining over Sunday, and called on Sunday on several of the wife's friends. Conductor David Sanderson, who lives on South street, Morristown, was one of these. William McCombs, a brotherderson, who lives on South street, Morristown, was one of these. William McCombs, a brotherin-law of Mr. Sanderson, who lives in the same house, also received a visit from the couple.

Mrs. Pierson lives in a little frame house on Bridge street, Morristown. She is the widow of Joseph Pierson, who died in the war, and she draws a pension. She has two daughters, the elder of whom is married to a New Jersoy farmer, Mrs. Tifany is a blonde, and 24 years old. Her husband is 22. The bride attended the public school until she was 15 years old. Then she went to work in the office of H. M. Ward, a sewing machine agent. A year ago he moved away, and then she came to New York. She was employed by Mrs. Sammon of 29 Union square to do sewing. At this time her mother thinks she met young Tifany, several years ago the skating rink craze reached Morristown and a rink was opened. Mrs. Pierson was a regular attendant, and her graceful skating was much admired.

Mrs. Pierson was seen yesterday by The Sun reporter. She was busy cleaning the apartments of Dr. Osmun, a dentist.

"I did not know anything about the marriage or the young gentleman either," she said, until Wednesday night, when Emma and her husband called at the house. I was very much surprised, and would hardly believe it until they showed me the certificate. They went back to New York on Thursday and came out again on Saturday afternoon. Emma told me she met Mr. Tiffany about a year sao. We are connected with the other Piersons in Morristown. All are wealthy but myself. Dr. Pierson, the President of the Morristown Gas Company, called to-day and congratulated me."

Asheville, N. C., Marchy.—Some days ago

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Murch'V.—Some days ago Mr. Jesse Faber, a farmer living near here, disappeared and all efforts to find him were unavailing. This mornand all efforts to find him were unavailing. This morning some hunters were attracted to a lone spot in the woods by the howling of a dog. They at first took no make of this but afterward a dog seemingly famished self through the brush came up to them and, howling, ran off a little ways, then returned and repeated the performance. They followed the smimal and came upon the dead body of Mr. Faber. The man had evidently been murdered. A gunshot wound was in his stomach. His faithful dog would not leave the body.

Died After Brawing a Check.

NEWBURGH, March 7.—Richard Johnson died suddenly on Sunday. A few minutes before dying he sroused his daughter, Mrs. Bradner, with whom he rearoused his daughter, Mrs. Bradner, with whom he resided, and told her he had but a few minutes to spare; that when he was gone she would need more money than she then had, and he insided that as check should be brought for him to sign. His daughter urged that she be permitted to so for help, but the dying man pleaded and a blank check was brought, which he filled out and signed. When the task was completed he sank back dead. Mr. Johnson was 74 years old. He had retired from business.

Indianapolis to be the Eighth League Club-818,000 for the St. Louis Franchise. "Walda Lamar." New in English A play made from a French novel, and called "Walda Lamar," was acted by Miss Helen Dauvray and her company at the Lyceum Theatre last evening. It had one intensely dramatic situation, which interested and thrilled the audience greatly, and for the moment made the success of the piece discarded by her titled lover, in order that he be disposed of, and a new club must be taken in to fill the eighth place in the League. might marry a more appropriate girl. The abandoned aweetheart followed him to the ridal home, confronted him in what was to have been his wedding hour, and stabbed herself in his presence, under circumstances nave been his wedding hour, and stabbed herself in his presence, under circumstances which would naturally convict him as her assassin. Her vengeful accusation made a climax to a scene which had a rousing effect upon the audience, and the applause was enthusiastic. But the good impression was weakened, if not obliterated, by the remainder of the play, in which the recovering woman easily relented, the man got hastily desirous of marrying her, and a highly artificial condition of amity was reached. Walda Lamar' came to a close without enlisting sympathy or respect for any one of its persons.

Should it win favor it must do so by reason of its theatric force of situation. Its characterization is indefinite, its story bald, and its morals very bad indeed, the hero and heroine being altogether reprehensible. The dramatization is by Mr. Henri Werthelmber, and it shows considerable cloverness, though not much creative ability.

The performance was interesting in employing two sons of famous actors. Mr. Alexander Salvini impersonated the fickle nobleman. He is a tall, shapely man, handsomer than his sire, with a strong fiexible voice, and lacking in no physical essential to good acting. Endowed with these natural advantages, only a misdirection of them could render him ineffective; and he displayed, as he had previously done in his occasional New York appearances, an intellectually dramatic comprehension of his rôle, His carefuiness made him too deliberate, and if every other person on the stage had spoken as slowly the play would have been half an hour longer. The part was that of a man contemptible in his love, cowering when in peril, and entirely unengaing. That he was applauded in such a task was a deserved compliment.

The other son of celebrity was Mr. E. H.
Sothern. He is boyish yet, though his stature is fixed, and it is unfortunately below that of his impressive father. He strikingly rosembles the late comedian, however, in face and speech. His treatment of several characters

The melodrama that Mr. Charles W. Bowser introduced to the city stage at the Windsor Theatre last night may be said to have been very awkwardly naturalized. It was written for an English audience. In knocking it into shape for an American judgment, the author shape for an American judgment, the author has only increased the enormity of his original sin. He was quite young when he ran through the British provinces with it: surely, he should have gained a little discretion with years, and, for the sake of his reputation at least, he ought to have put "Dollars and Dimes" away forever. Mr. Bowser, who is starring in it, its a comedian of limited talent but of prodigious endeavor. There is not a great deal of him in the melodrama, and that fact is of itself the sole novelty of the entertainment. Mr. Bowser is Capt. O'Shaughnessy, a choleric and wealthy Irish sea Captain, with an inconsistent residence in England's Devonshire, and an imperfectly defined relation to the plot—the old story of man's treachery and woman's love. Mr. J. F. Brien is the wronged but finally righted hero—a sort of diluted Silver King, in fact, with all that character's virtues, but without the wealth; and Mrs. Brien (Miss Helen Blythe) is the conventional pitiful wife. These three actors labored earnessity to make "Dollars and Dimes" go; but it called forth only misleading noise from the Windsor audience.

An incidental soubrette was Miss Elvia Crox, a bewitching little brunette of undoubted ability, but at present mainly interesting from her patent desire to give the whole show herself. Pauline L'Allemand has the beauty, sparkle, and sinuesity of person and the brilliancy of voice requisite to an ad-mirable portrayal of the Indian heroine. Her delivery of the "Legend of the Pariah's Daugh-ter" is an example of facile and expressive singdelivery of the "Legend of the Parlah's Daughter" is an example of facile and expressive singing. Mr. Chas. Bassett, Lakmd's lover, is not so severely taxed in this rôle as in Faust. Its music is quite within the limitations of his voice and method. Mr. William H. Lee's Hadji is a lively personation. Mr. Stoddard is somewhat overweighted by the music of Nikalantha, yet impresses the hearer with his artistic sincerity. The subordinate parts were satisfactorily taken. The seenery in this performance is extremely beautiful. The ballet in the second act was gracefully executed.

Confident that His Grand Opera "Nero' Will be Artistically Rendered.

Mr. Locke, general manager of the National Opera Company, has received the following letter from Anton Rubinstein regarding the production of his grand opera "Nero," which will be presented for the first time in America at the Metropolitan Opera House on Monday

DEAR SIR: I was extremely happy to hear from your letter that you intend to perform my "Nero" this season in the American opera. All I wish for my work is that the American public should be as kind to It as it slways was to my planto playing. WASHINGTON, March 7.—The Supreme Court of the United States decided to-day, in the case of Loretta M. Crandall against the Accident Insurance Com-pany of North America, which came up on appeal from the Circuit Court for the District of Illinois, that suicide the Circuit Court for the District of Illinois, that suicide by an insane person is death by accident. Mrs. Crandall's husband, who had an accident policy in the company named, hanged himself while insane. The company refused to pay on the ground that the policy contained a provision that it "shall be null and void." If the assured "shall die by suicide," or shall be not be assured "shall die by suicide," or shall be not be assured "shall die by suicide," or shall be not be assured "shall die by suicide," or shall be not be assured "shall die by suicide," or shall be not be the provision. The containing the words "sane or insane" does not include a self-killing by an insane person. Nor does the case come within the clause which provides that the insurance shall not extend to "death or disability which may have been caused wholly or in part by bodily infirmities or disease." The words "bodily infirmities or disease" do not include insanily. The words "bodily infiritities or disease" do not include insanity.

Upon the question raised as to the effect of the leading sentence of the policy insuring Crandail "against bodily injuries effected through external accidental and violent means." the Court holds that this sentence does not speak of what the injury is "caused by," but looks only to the "means" by which it is effected. No one doubt that hanging is a violent means of death. As it affects the body from without it is external, and according to the decisions as to suicide under policies of life insurancelic cannot, when done by an insane person, be held to be other than accidental.

The question of disposing of the Kansas City Club was not brought up, but it is understood that the League will buy all the players as they stand, so as to allow the club to derive some benefit from them. The Kansas City Club, not having engaged a player for next season, the men on their reserve list would otherwise become public property as soon as the club leaves the League.

The excitement about the hotel corridors among the ball players, who had gathered from all parts of the country to hear the earliest news from the meeting, was very great.

President Spalding said last night that he did not know whether McCormick would play with the Chicago Club this season.

"Do you think the New York Club will buy him?" he was asked.

"That I don't know," he said, "If Mr. Day will give me my price he can have him."

Two thousand dollars is said to be Mr. Spalding's price.

A HOAX IN ST. STEPHEN'S PARISH. Dr. Carey in Pursuit of News From Rome

About Br. McGlynn. St. Stephen's parish has been like tow for inflammability since the telegram from Rome enediction. Some one started a big bonfire in front of Dr. Carey's

BROADWAY AND THINTIETH STREET.

Henry Carry, 541 Second accense.

Come to the palace at once in regard to Dr. McGlynn.

Monsignor Prassivs.

Although nobody signs genuine despatches in that way Dr. Carey had his hat on and was around the corner knocking at Committeeman J. T. Daly's newspaper store in half a minute.

This is spry for a man who weighs 200 pounds and is not quite 5 feet 9 inches tall. Mr. Daly tarried to bring with him Vice-President John R. Feeney, while Dr. Carey hastened to the archiepiscopal residence. At Fiftieth street and Madison avenue. Dr. Carey had scarcely enough breath left to puil the bell vigorously. The residence showed no light in the windows. Archbishop Corrigan has been away from New York for a month. The servant said that nobody was there waiting to see Dr. Carey. At the priests' house he learned the same thing. Father Lovell, who is in charge of the archdocese in Archbishop Corrigan's absence, said to the reporter that he knew of no new despatch from Rome concerning Dr. McGlynn.

Archbishop Corrigan expected to leave Cuba for the United States yesterday, He expected when he last wrote to Father Lavelle to stop for a few days at St. Augustine on his way to New York, and to reach here on Monday next,

A Lombard Wants His Commulation.

The Italians who were employed at the West here freight house, and who went on strike the other day, made application on Saturday last for reinstate day, made application on Saturday last for reinstated upon being paid $15 as a condition of their reemployment. In company with Victor Magi the Italians waited upon Freight Superintendent Haskell. He told them that Lombardi was no longer in the employ of the company, and that as soon as there was work for them they would be put to work. They told Superintendent Haskell that they quit work because they were alraid that they would be killed.

A Blue Stone Combination.

A combination of North River blue stone dealers has been arranged by which it is proposed to raise the price of blue stone and maintain a uniform rate. All stone will hereafter be sold through the man rate. An stone win necessiter be soot through the man-ager of the pool, Samuel Coykendall of Kingston, who has his office in the Stewart building. The combination consists of nine of the principal wholesale dealers, who will each receive a certain percentage of the orders pro-rata on business done last year. Mr. Coykendall guaran-teeting the payment. The arrangement will hold for six years. A similar combination was made two years ago, but failed because certain dealers gave rebates.

Called him a Thief but Didn't Mean It. Patrick Walsh and James C, Campbell, old ratrick waish and James C. Campiell, did friends fell out about an alleged overcharge for work done on Campbell's house. Walsh, alleging that Campbell had called him a thief and a fraud, sued Campbell in the Supreme Court to recover $10,0830 damages. Campbell is defence was that the words used had reference to the overcharge, and did not impute crime, and that they were so understood by those who heard them. The jury found for the defendant.

Methodist Church will take the place on the programme which had been assigned to Mr. Heecher.

Work will be resumed to-day on the Union Elevated Railroad in Flatbush and Atlantic avenues, and will be continued without further interruption. Residents of Fifth avenue have petitioned the Board of Aldermen to require the Long Island Elevated Railroad Company to provide for transfers to and from the Union Elevated Road at a single rate of fare so that people coming from South Brooklyn may go either to the ferry or to East New York without extra fare.

Mrs. Sarah Macomber died in Brooklyn in 1873 leaving an estate valued at $1.00,000. By her will-method of her property was given in trust to theirge A Powers, her son in-law for the use of his wife during her life, the principal to go to her issue or descendants in such proportion as she should direct by will. Mrs. Powers died in 1873 without making a will and left several children among them Mrs. Mary L. O'Flynn. The latter alleges that her father has managed the estate with a view to cheat and defraud the heirs, and she is saing him and others in the Supreme Court to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance; also for an accounting and for Mr. Powers removal as trustee.

A SCRAMBLE OUT OF THE NEW COURT. Indicted Liquor Dealers Flee From General

The new Part III. of the General Sessions was opened yesterday in the Common Pleas Court room, Part II., on the third floor of the new Court House. Judge Cowing presided. Only ball cases will be tried in Part III., as there are no conveniences for transferring and confining prisoners. There were 127 cases on the calendar. A good many of the papers were dusty. There was a accree or more of Excise cases, and the lawyers, almost with one accord, applied for and obtained permission to take the trials, now that trials there must be, to the Special Sessions. The reason why the General Sessions was chosen by the defendants was because the defendants and did most earnessly believe that the General Sessions would never have time to try the cases at all. Now the defendants are hustling back to the Special feasions, hopping for lighter sentences from the Folice Justices than they would get in the higher complainant in one case hadded. Other cases were set down for trial, and the court adjourned until to-day.

Mrs. McLynden Complains of Crueity.

Mrs. Lizzie McLynden, a comely woman 23 years old, entered suit for allmony yesterday against Frank McLynden, who keeps a saloon at571 Broad street, Newark. She says that a few months after their marriage, in 1883, he knocked her down and dragged her around the floor by her hair. She left him once when he kept a saloon in East Newark, and she applied to the Overseer of the Foor for relief. Her husband then promised to behave better, and she went back to him, but after a short time he began to abuse her again. McLynden denies all her charges, and says the trouble arises from the fact that she wants to live in East Newark, while he has a furnished house ready for her in Newark.

DOWN-TOWN GOSSIP.

The Hon. Roswell P. Flower, in speaking of the stock market, said yesterday that he was bullish and thought the big earnings of the railroads a very bright induence. and thought that all apprehension regarding tight money —particularly tight money caused by the April settlements—had been quelled by the big houses which have provided themselves liberally with money for some time

Mr. H. S. Carpenter of Charles Head & Co. of the Stock Exchange, said that he was a bull in the long run, but that the impenetrable duiness of the stock market made it exceedingly difficult to make any positive prediction it exceedingly difficult to make any positive prediction for the immediate future. Mr. Carpenier believed that the bank statement next Saturday would be more favor-able, but thought that a good many people were await-ing with interest the practical workings of the Inter-State law which goes into effect this month.

Mr. Robert Schley of Atlanta visited a number of the stock brokers' offices yesterday, and explained the profits that the American Cotton Seed Oil Trust Comprome that the American Cotton seed on Trust com-pany reaps from its present bonanza. Mr. Schley said that $10 a ton was paid for the cotton seed, and that there was a profit of $21 a ton to the company from cotton seed cake, the oil, and the cotton lintels; and he added that only one tenth of the cotton seed in the South one of the roaring bulls of Wall street, announced yes-terday that he had paid 100 cents on the dollar, and would apply for readmission to the Stock Exchange. The committee will consider his application, and report at the next meeting of the Governors.

The clerks in the Sub-Treasury started in vesterday to The cierus in the Sub-Treasury started in yesterday to redeem the trade dollars under the bill just signed by the President. Sub-Treasurer Canda had been notified that 3,500,000 of the dollars would be presented for redemption, but, as every coin has to be carefully scrutinized, only 100,000 of the "trades" were handled yesterday. No mutilated, defaced, or stamped dollars will be refeared. It is expressed that when these themselves. will be redeemed. It is expected that when those from China, Japan, and other Oriental countries come along many will be thrown out. The job of redeeming the dollars will take about six months.

The big bears in Chicago tackled wheat yesterday ong holders ran, and the camp followers of the bear clique hurt things a little. All the wheat thrown over was quickly absorbed, shippers here taking forty boat loads. Thenlt became known that Mr. Norman B. Ream and Nat Jones of Chicago had climbed over into the bull camp, the California, Cincinnati, and New York bull began buying, and May rushed up to 14 cents.

Cotton and petroleum ruled steady but without interesting features. The bulls in coffee rushed the bean up thirty points on higher Havre cables and on reported light receipts at Rio Janeiro and Santos.

Monday, March 7.

The speculative interest in stocks to-day centred very largely in Western Union. The transactions in that stock were unusually large, and aggregated more than one-fifth of the total. There seemed to be no special effort to advance the price, so that the net gain of 15 % cent, that it scored appeared to be due chiefly to a desire to acquire the stock. Some very singular rumors attended the movement, and if an important deal is in progress, as seems to be the case, it is not surprising that none of them could be absolutely confirmed. The one that received the most attention was formu-lated by one of the news agencies that quoted a director of the Western Union Company as saying: "I understand that efforts are being made by interested parties to secure control of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. If they succeed, the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph will pass under the control of the same people. The present relations between the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph and the Western Union will then change for better and may be for worse. At any rate there will be a change of present relations, and that is enough to cause specula tion in Western Union stock."

Inquiries in behalf of THE SUN resulted in some confirmation of the view that important negotiations are pending. The indications are that some of the capitalists interested in the East Tennessee, the Richmond Terminal, and other corporations have obtained some sort of standing between the Western Union and the Baltimore and Ohio companies, and the end to be accomplished is not only an improvement of the telegraph situation, but of the railroad be accomplished is not only an improvement of the telegraph situation, but of the railroad situation as well. Exacely what form the deal will take or whether it will be successfully concluded cannot be predicted. At least some of those most deeply interested in the market decline as yet to venture opinions, regarding the result. The magnitude of the deal, so far as it can be inferred from the surface indications, is sufficient to account for the obstinate strength of the market for weeks past.

The other conspicuous features of the market were Northwestern, which was in demand on account of the excellent showing that the company is expected to make for the past year, and Jersey Central, which was advanced sharply in the late dealings. Upon the movements of the last named it is useless to dwell. There were less noteworthy dealings in Richmond Terminal and in Lackawanna. The continuous advance in Western Union imparted confidence and activity to the entire list, and though there was no material increase in the rading, the market gave some signs of broadening. There was some improvement in the London market, and this, together with an indifferent market for sterling exchange and no special acceptivity in the money market, helped the general state of the public is largely due to the lack of positiveness in the market, and that is a quality that leadership must supply.

The dealings in the Unilsted Department were unusually large, with the speculation in American Cotton Seed Trust certificates still the leading feature. They opened 34 % cent. lower than they closed on Saturday, at 50, and declined further to 48. Their course seemed to be influenced entirely by reports of what Mr. P. D. Armour proposes to do in opposition to the company. It is understood that the development of an opposition concern waits upon Mr. Armour or his representatives are negotiating for the best trade that can be made with the American Company consecution of the sample of the cortificates to be dealt in upon the floor of the Exchange, the f

Government bonds quiet and firm. Closing prices were unchanged as compared with Saturday. The dealines in railroad bonds were moderate and the tone of the market firm. There were no material changes in prices.

Sterling exchange continues quiet and fea-tureless, with posted asking rates unchanged at $4.85% for long bills and $4.88% for demand. The Treasury statement shows increased balances of gold and legal tenders:

The Sub-Treasury received to-day $108,000 trade dollars.

The amount of bullion gone into the Bank of England on balance to-day is £46,000. Paris advices quote 3 F cents at 80.22%.
